Create an inviting table decoration with various tea lights, flowers and a painted wooden flower in just a few simple steps. Let your creativity blossom and create unique accents for your home!

First paint the wooden flower with handicraft paint in antique rosé.

While the paint is drying on the wooden flower, you can add a special touch to the jars and bottles by painting them with either jute ribbon and handicraft glue or dab them with frosteffect paint.
If you want to decorate the frosteffect paint on the tealight jars with straight edges, use masking tape. Simply peel it off after painting.

Things to know about frosteffect paint
The frosty effect is created after drying, and if you bake the paint in the oven at 160°C for 30 minutes, the glass becomes hand washable.

Fill the vases with some colored sand (for a firmer stand). Trim the artificial flowers with the side cutter and place them in the vases. Place tea lights in the tea light jars and arrange everything on a tray.

Finally, arrange some Iceland moss between the jars. This will create a harmonious overall impression
